

Drivers to watch

Alex Roache

Graham Smith

Chris Walker

Jack Barlow

Jack Barlow moved up to Junior Max this year after success in Minimax, and promptly took 4th in Super One and 2nd in FKS, as well as taking the fight for the Euromax title down to the wire.

He has raced with Strawberry this year and will remain with the team next year, aiming for the no. 1 plate as he continues in Junior Max, so they will be putting in a lot of work over the winter.

He has recently been signed up by Arai as a representative, look out for a future article in Karting magazine about his trip to The Netherlands to their helmet testing facility.

David Eadon

21-year-old KR-Sport driver David Eadon is one of the few drivers to defend his Super One title, which he did in TKM Extreme this year. It was an even bigger achievement as there were three other previous champions racing in the series, and he has already had to adjust to the change to softer tyres and new style chassis without much testing.

He had wanted to switch to single-seaters for 2010 but couldn't find the budget, and doesn't know yet what his 2011 plans are.

Karol Basz

KF2 race winner Karol Basz switched his attention briefly to KGP recently when he raced and won at Castelletto in the class' maiden trophy race, which also featured ex-GP2 driver Ernesto Viso and the UK's Michael Simpson who finished 2nd. He didn't have quite as good a race at the final WSK World round though after struggling with tyre wear.

The Polish driver races an RK Kart for Birel Motorsport and is unsurprisingly seen as the county's heir to Robert Kubica after starting karting nine years ago when he was 10.
